

Pacific Northwest Region

BergerABAM’s Pacific Northwest offices are centrally located in Federal Way, Seattle, and Vancouver, Washington; and Portland, Oregon. The Pacific Northwest culture reflects the varied geography of the region and enjoyment of the great outdoors.

Skiing, snowboarding, hiking, climbing, sailing, bicycling, kayaking and river rafting, and golfing are all popular outdoor activities. The BergerABAM ski team takes to the slopes during the snow season and the firm’s annual golf tournament is an opportunity to hit the links.

The Pacific Northwest offers performing arts, such as ballet, theaters, museums, and symphony orchestras. The area is also well known for the indie music scene as the home of grunge rock. In addition, there is a host of specialty bookstores perfect for rainy-day browsing.

Sports fans will love watching professional sports teams in baseball, football, and basketball. BergerABAM distributes Seattle Mariners tickets among employees at the beginning of the baseball season. The firm also hosts coed soccer and basketball for employees to participate directly.

The Pacific Northwest offices of BergerABAM provide an ideal location for professional and personal growth. Although many of the engineers hail from other regions of the state and nation, all of them have quickly come to call this area “home.”